Authors Martin Walters and Jinny Johnson, both from the UK, have each written numerous children's books related to animals and nature. The World of Animals was edited by Steve Parker, a Scientific Fellow of the Zoological Society, authoring over 120 books and editing dozens more related to the natural world. Michael Lavelle is a committed environmentalist and a firm believer that nature provides the best model for any garden design. A keen observer of nature since his early childhood in Lancashire, England, he believes that this natural model combined with a common-sense approach to horticulture is the key to organic success. Michael studied horticulture at Askham Bryan College in York and environmental management at Wye College in Kent, U.K. He worked as a professional landscaper before starting a career as a horticultural lecturer in the early 1990s. Michael has designed and constructed several educational exhibits at the Chelsea Flower Show, achieving prestigious gold medals in 1999 and 2003. He currently works as a senior lecturer in landscape management at Writtle College in Chelmsford.
